Parelli Foundation Helps With Community Outreach

By Elizabeth Gibbs

Leading a horse is more than just dragging him or her along behind you. It should be a gentle, benevolent guide from point to point with dignity and integrity filling every step. At LEAD (Leadership, Education, and Active Development) with Horses in Reno, Nev., horses and therapists lead local children and adolescents in just such a way. Whether it’s a boy in foster care or a girl with a social disorder, be they rich or poor, LEAD accepts them all into the magical world of equine therapy.

This year, the Parelli Foundation was proud to provide LEAD with Horses a grant to assist them in local community outreach.

2018 Horse Welfare Grants Announced

Earlier this year we awarded over $20,000 in grants through our Horse Welfare Program!

The welfare of horses is of great importance to the Parelli Foundation. Nothing promotes equine wellbeing more than humans learning to communicate with horses in a way horses understand – naturally.

We fund education initiatives for horse rescue centers that improve the welfare of the horse and increase adoptability. From this grant cycle, ten centers, programs, and rescues are implementing or continuing programs based in natural horsemanship.

We are proud of the work our grant recipients are doing!

2015 Road to the Summit Horse Follow Up: Danica Finds a Loving Partner

By Elizabeth Gibbs

Instead of running circles around her grazing mother at Atwood Ranch, Danica now runs circles around Anna Furber's heart. This kindhearted, right-brained introvert from the Road to the Summit in 2015 found her forever partner, and oh the mountains they have climbed together - literally! Read this dynamic duo's story.
